WATER CURE.
BAYNEVILLE, Pennsylvania.—The friends of Hydropathy, also the public in general, are respectfully informed that the Water Cure at Bayneville, Pa., has now been in successful operation since August, 1887.
The building is 70 feet by 38, two stories high, and will accommodate 100 patients. It is supplied with pure, aerated and gently warmed water. The sleeping, bathing, and dressing rooms are large and airy, and are fitted up for the comfort of the gentlemen, as well as different buildings; also separate buildings for the ladies, and a large hall for the necessary halls for undergoing a successful treatment.
Numerous pure soft-water springs surround the Establishment, and the relief and recovery of the patients in the hills are abundant, and the exertion of reaching the summits of the hills is greatly aided by the beautiful views over a most picturesque country.
Dr. Baile, the proprietor, who resides in the Establishment, has treated over 1000 patients, and has a large number of practices, and, early in the ensuing summer, expects to be joined by Dr. J. C. Felt, formerly of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, who will be in charge of the ladies' department.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.

☞ The Publishers of the Living Age annex a Prospectus of that work, and solicit to the attention of the readers of the National Era. Those who wish to accomplish any of their generation must take a large view of the world as it is around them—they must look over the whole of the age they live in.

PROSPECTUS.

☞ This work is conducted in the spirit of Littell's Bi-monthly of Foreign Literature, (which was favorably received by the public for twenty years), but as it is twice as large, and appears so often, we not only give spirit and freshness to a subject which we have already treated, but we also, by doing so, while we extend our scope and gathering a greater and more attractive variety, are able so to increase the solid and substantial part of our literary, historical, and political

The elaborate and stately Essays of the Edinbu'gh Quarterly, and other Reviews; and Blackwood's no less criticisms in Poetry, his keen political Commentaries, highly wrought and glowing descriptions of the various scenes of nature, and the contributions to Literature, History, and Common Life, by the sagacious Spectator, the sparkling Examiner, the judicious Athenaeum, the busy and industrious Literary Gazette, the sensible and comprehensive Britannica, the sober and reliable Courier, the brilliant and sparkling Illustrated Magazine with the Military and Naval reminiscences of the United Service, and with the best writers of the Dublin University, New Monthly Magazine, Tait's, Ainsworth's, Wood's, and Spurgeon Magazines; and of Chambers's admirable Encyclopaedia, which has been so often quoted as authority to borrow wit and wisdom from Punch; and, when we think it good enough, make use of the thunder of The Times. We shall increase our variety by importations from the conti-

The steamship has brought Europe, Asia, and Africa, into our neighborhood, and will greatly multiply our connections, as merchants, travellers and politicians, with all parts of the world; so that much more than ever before we have been every intelligent American to be informed of the condition and changes of foreign countries. And this not only because of their nearer connection with us through the mail, but also on account of its hastening, through a rapid process of change, to some new state of things, which the merely political reporter cannot compute or foresee.

Geographical Discoveries, the progress of Colonization, whatever other events may excite the curiosity of Voyagers and Travellers, will be of general matter for our attention; and, in general, we shall systematically and very fully acquaint our readers with the great department of Foreign affairs, without entirely neglecting our own.

No. 60. As desirable to all who wish to keep themselves informed of the rapid progress of the movement—to Statesmen, Divines, Lawyers, and Physicians—of course of business and of the world at large, a stronger inducement to take an active and useful part in their wives and children! We believe that we can thus do some good in our day and generation; and hope to make the work indispensable in every well-informed family. We say indispensable, because we think that no family can be long without it, if possible to guard against the influx of what is bad in taste and vicious in morals, in any other way than by furnishing a sufficient supply of a healthy character. The mental and moral appetite must be gratified.

We hope to be very winning through the aid from the public, in our writing about the imagination, and by a large collection of Biography, Voyages and Travels, History, and more solid matter, we may produce a work which shall be popular, while at the same time it will aspire to

TERMS.

THE LIVING AGE is published every Saturday, by E. Little & Co., corner of Tremont and Broadfield streets, Boston; twelve and a half cents a number, or six dollars a year, in advance. Advertisements for any period will be gratefully received and promptly attended to.

To insure regularity in mailing the work, orders should be addressed to the office of publication, at above.

Cloths, paying a year in advance, will be supplied as follows:

Four copies for	$0
Nine copies for	$3
Twelve copies for	$5

Complete sets, in fifteen volumes, to the end of 1847, hand comely bound, and packed in neat boxes, are for sale at thirty dollars.

Any volume may be had separately at two dollars, bound, a dollar and a half in numbers.

Any number may be sent to the publisher, and he will be glad to supply the same to subscribers or purchasers to complete any broken volumes they may have, and thus greatly enhance their value.

AGENCIES.

We are desirous of making arrangements, in all parts of North America, for increasing the circulation of this work; and for doing this, a liberal commission will be allowed to gentlemen who will interest themselves in the business. And we will gladly correspond on this subject with any agent who will send us undoubted references.

POSTAGE.

When sent with the cover on, the Living Age consists of three sheets, and is rated as a pamphlet, at four and a half cents. But when sent without the cover, it consists of only two sheets, and is rated as a newspaper, at one cent. The legal definition of a newspaper is, "a printed sheet, containing news, and cannot legally be sold for less than one cent per copy." We have no newspaper postage, one and a half cent. We add the definition alluded to:

A newspaper at short stated intervals of not more than one month, conveying intelligence of passing events.

MONTHLY PARTS.
For such as prefer it is that form, the Living Age is put up in Monthly Parts, containing four or five weekly numbers. In this shape it shows to great advantage in comparison with other works, containing in each part double the matter of any of the Quarterlies. But we recommend the weekly number as fresher and fuller of life. Postage on the Monthly part is about fourteen cents. The volumes are published quarterly, each volume containing as much matter as a Quarterly Review gives in six weeks.

Published at six dollars a year, by
R. LITTELL & CO., Boston.
